A serious head on collision near Lime Lake, N. Fireman McCarthy was thrown into the fire box and roasted. His headless remains were recovered two hours after the accident. Engineer McCleary was severely injured, his right shoulder being crushed.

Two men who were burried under the engines and forty cars, were recovered Tuesday. Error in orders caused the smash up.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.
By I. K. HOCKLEY, Clerk.

The County Fair.

Interest is beginning to be manifest in the coming County Fair this fall. From various directions comes the inquiry, "will there surely be another Fair this fall?" and also persons are giving their crops the best of cultivation, taking especial care of some particularly promising specimen and endeavoring to develop their live stock to their fullest extent. This extra effort will surely result in much good. It will stimulate the grower to acquaint himself with the best methods in Agriculture and the latest and most promising varieties of products. The interest it will stimulate gives the producer a greater profit and increases the sum of his happiness. Many consider a Fair a place of amnsement. While the amusement feature should not be overlooked, the Fair is a great educational institution and this should always be kept in mind. It is hoped that every citizen throughout the county will make an effort to exhibit something and thus contribute to the success of a commendable enterprise.

John Charles Baker.

[Ridgway Advocate.]

Mr. Baker was born in New York State on July 11, 1855, and died at Portland Mills, Elk county, Pa., on July 9, 1904. He was aged 47 years, 11 months, and 28 days.

Mr. Baker was the son of a Methodist preacher. In early infancy he was left an orphan by the death of his mother. He found a home with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fay, at Emporium, Pa. Here with them he grew to young manhood. He had the advantage of good school facilities and when grown to be a young man, he possessed more than an ordinary education and was of more than ordinary mental culture. He was a graduate of Mansfield State Normal school, and had been a student in other institutions of learning. He became a school teacher and followed that as a business. In this business he was successful.

At the age of 16 he was attacked with what was then called spotted fever. Later he suffered with an attack of fever of some other kind. From the effects of these sicknesses he seemed to recover slowly, and when 20 years of age he went to Florida in hopes that a better climate would aid in a more rapid recovery. He returned to Pennsylvania in a year or so, Later he again went South. He spent altogether 17 years in the South. From Florida he came to Portland Mills, in May 1901, where he has since resided, and where he died, as above.

In 1882 he was married to Miss Melissa Frances Baker, who survives him. To them were born four children—two girls and two boys. One girl is dead. Those living are: Alonzo M., Alphonso R.; and Alida C., the last 5 years of age.

Mr. Baker was a man of high moral ideas and of excellent moral character. At his own reguest he was elected to the Croyland Schools, in Spring Creek, Elk county, in the fall of 1902. Falling health forced his resignation. For 21 years continuously he struggled against an impaired condition of health. It was an unavaling struggle.

Funeral services were held at his home in Portland Mills, on Sunday evening following his death. On the next day the body was taken to Emporium, Pa., and their buried.

Extracts From the President's Speech.

A party is of worth only in so far as it promotes the National interest, and every official, high or low, can serve his party best by rendering to the people the best service of which he is capable.

In dealing with the great organizations known as the trusts, we do not have to explain why the laws were not enforced, but to point out that they actually have been enforced and that legislation has been enacted to increase the effectiveness of their enforcement.

So long as the Republican party is in power the gold standard is settled, not as a matter of temporary political expediency, but in accordance with what we regard as the fundamental principles of National morality and wisdom.

Re-adjustment of the tariff schedules, when the need arises, can with safety be made only by those whose devotion to the principle of protective tariff is beyond question, for otherwise the changes would amount not to a re-adjustment but to repeal.

The problems with which we have to deal in our modern industrial and social life are manifold, but the spirit in which it is necessary to approach their solution is simply the spirit of honesty, of courage and of common sense.

We have already shown in actual fact that our policy is to do fair and equal justice to all men, paying no heed to whether a man is rich or poor, paying no heed to his race, creed or his birthplace.

We recognize the organization of capital and the organization of labor as natural outcomes of our industrial system. Each kind of organization is to be favored so long as it acts in a spirit of justice and of regard for the rights of others.

Every sinister effort that could be devised by the spirit of faction or the spirit of self interest was made in order to defeat the treaty with Panama and thereby prevent the consummation of this work (the canal). The construction of the canal is now an assured fact, but it certainly would be unwise to entrust the carrying out of so momentous a policy to those who have endeavored to defeat the whole undertaking.

Our foreign policy has been so conducted that while not one of our just claims has been sacrificed our relations with all foreign nations are now of the most peaceful kind. There is not a cloud on the horizon.

We hold that the prosperity of each nation is an aid not a hindrance to the prosperity of other nations.

We seek international amity for the same reason that makes us believe in peace within our own borders,and we seek this peace not because we are afraid or unready, but because we think that peace is right as well as advantageous.

Our steady growth in power has gone hand in hand with a strengthening disposition to use this power with strict regard for the rights of others and for the cause of international justice and good will.

During the seven years just passed these is no duty domestic or foreign which we have shirked, no necessary task which we have feared to undertake, or which we have not performed with reasonable officiency. We have never pleaded impotence. We have never sought refuge in criticisms and complaint instead of action.

We are governing the Philippines in the interest of the Philippine people themselves. We have already given them a large share in their government, and our purpose is to increase this share as rapidly as they give evidence of increased fitness for the task.

A Library for Emporium.

A representative of The Banner Books Library is in town this week making an effort to establish an exchange station of this popular concern, which will be located in Taggart's Drug Store. The Banner Books Library offers to the booklovers of the land a remarkable proposition. It delivers and exchanges the best books, by popular authors, at the homes of its patrons.

The fee for a life membership has been placed at a very nominal sum and a large membership should be secured. Representatives will call and explain more fully the merits of the proposition. Circulars and other information may be had upon application to Mr. L. Taggart. 23-1t.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

HEMPHILL.

MRS. OLIVE BLANCH (Birchfield) HEMPHILL, (wife of Sheriff Harry Hemphill, of Emporium, who has, while battling himself against a disease of a serious nature, rendered every means to save his wife,) aged 49 years and 17 days, died at Jefferson Hospital, Philadelphia,Thursday, July 21st, 1904. After suffering for five years with disease she was taken to Philadelphia last week for a second operation, that being the last hope. Accompanied by her physician she was placed in Jefferson Hospital under Dr. DeCosta, who at once prepared the patient, and, assisted by Drs. Fisher and Montgomery, removed a double tumor, last Thursday afternoon. The shock to the system of the sufferer was too great and she passed away a short time after regaining consciousness, when she told the Dr. she was going to die, and peacefully passed away. The afflicted husband immediately started for Philadelphia, upon receiving the sad news, telegraphing to Hon. R. R. Bringhurst to take charge of the remains and prepare it for shipment to Emporium, upon Mr. Hemphill's arrival in Philadelphia. Every attention and courtesy was rendered by our good friend Bringhurst and the fact that the call came from Emporium, where his friends are many, was all that he needed. Sheriff Hemphill, accompanied by his cousin, Miss Sadie P. Hemphill, of Philadelphia, arrived in Emporium, Saturday morning at 5:10, the remains being met at the depot by Mr. Charles Rishell, of LaBar's undertaking establishment of this place,and a number of our citizens and coveyed to the jail residence, where the funeral took place Sunday afternoon; Rev. Robt. McCaslin, Pastor of First Presbyterian Church, officiating, the singing upon the impressive occasion being furnished by a choir of mixed voices from the Episcopal Presbyterian, Methodist and Baptist churches—the deceased, however and her family being attendants of Presbyterian Church. Rev. McCaslin's remarks were very appropriate. The fioral offerings were many and beautiful. The remains were taken to Clearfield, their old home, on Monday morning for burial.

Deceased came to Emporium in 1888; was a lady of intelligence and energy, being a member of one of Clearfield's oldest and most respected families; an elegant housekeeper, neat and economical. She had many elegant traits of character—kind to the poor and afflicted and no hardship was too much to endure. Four sons, all at home for the funeral, Bingham, Ralph, Orvis and Kerr—the latter coming from Westboro, Wis., arriving here Sunday noon. The afflicted family and relatives, who have had years of sickness, are indeed entitled to the sympathy and condolence of our people. Sheriff Hemphill, a good citizen, and kind friend, has battled hard and manfully with fate, has hosts of friends here who will encourage and comfort him.

HENRY LUDLAM.
Emporium, Pa., April 26th, 1904.

Visit of Observation.

While on a recent trip through the Northern part of Pennsylvania and Southern New York, two things were very noticeable to me. First, to me, was the excellent condition of the farms, and all farm crops. Next, the great change in the politics of the people; one township in particular, furnished me with much thought. Fifteen years ago there was only four Republicans in the township; now it is very nearly reversed. I am personally acquaintd with nearly half of the people there, but could not account for the immense change; every one, except possibly a few Standard Oil employes, were talking Roosevelt, in favor of Roosevelt, and all for Roosevelt. There was no argument, but all seemed to say, or feel, as Milo Green said to me, "Roosevelt is good enough for me;" but Milo is an old soldier, that might account for him; but what has changed the others so radically?

Crops in Northern N. Y., look the best I have ever seen them, hay, oats, and potatoes, are extra fine—one field of rye that I passed would average five feet tall. But corn is a general failure, as I only saw two fields that were even average; gardens were all good. But I think the corn crop around Emporium, is better than any place I have been.

On this trip there was five railroad wrecks in three days; three of which rather interferred with my traveling, and one of which was caused by gross carelesness on the part of the engineer, as he let the journals of his engine get so dry that they cut off, and lost the drive wheels on one side of the engine. One poor tramp was the only one seriously hurt.

I expect if the great combines, trusts, or syndicates, can crowd out Roosevelt; beat him in any way at any cost, then, the railroads will put on men enough to run their trains without so many wrecks; but perhaps the meat trusts can have us all starved out by that time, so that we will not care whether railroads run or not. To me it looks like a great combine to kill off all men not worth a million dollars, and so far this year they have been very, very successful. The only hope I can see for a poor man is in Roosevelt for next President, as he is the only one that seems to have man enough about him that he cannot be bribed, forced or frightened by any of the trusts.

Depth of Chautauqua Lake.

The distance from Jamestown to Mayville by water is less than commonly supposed, being only 17 8-10 miles, while the length of the lake proper from Celoron to Mayville is less than 15 miles. Lake soundings are an interesting study. From Mayville to Chautauqua the bottom is found regularly at 35 feet. From Chautauqua the bottom drops away rapidly until the maximum depth of 94 feet is reached opposite Maple Springs. At Long Points it rises to 57 feet and to 30 feet at the ferry, from which point the lake gradually becomes shollower until a depth of 10 feet is found near Lakewood and even less on the mud flats below that point.—Jamestown Journal.

The "Business Engineer.

Not long ago the magazine called System spoke of the "business engineer." That is, it implied that the man who is to conduct a business requires a technical training and stands on as high an intellectual plane as the man who constructs a bridge.

By a curious and most significant coincidence the University of Brussels at just about the same time announced that it would bestow the title of "business engineer" upon the graduates of its newly established department of commercial studies. Meanwhile commercial education, which is as technical as engineering education, has raised its head almost simultaneously in the three great commercial countries of the world. In Germany there are three new "commercial universities," one at Frankfort, one at Leipsic, and one at Cologne, while a fourth is about to open at Berlin. In England the universities of London and Manchester have added commercial courses to their curricula and the University of Birmingham, at the suggestion of Joseph Chamberlain, has erected a "faculty of commerce." In the United States commercial high schools are numerous and departments of commerce have been introduced into many colleges and universities, notably those of Dartmouth, Michigan, Chicago and Wisconsin. Under such circumstances is there not something to be said for the suggestion made by Prof. Waxweiler, of the University of Brussels, that as the nineteenth century made manufacturing processes scientific so the twentieth century will do commercial processes the same service? It is Prof. Waxweiler's conviction that during the twentieth century the process of distributing manufactured good through the markets of the world will become so complicated a profession, demanding so intimate an acquaintance with labor and time-saving devices, with methods of transportation, and with the habits and customs of the people in various countries, that in the first place rigid preliminary training will be required, and that in the second place the business man will be set off in a professional, technical class by himself, just as much as the civil engineer, the architect, the chemist, or the physician.

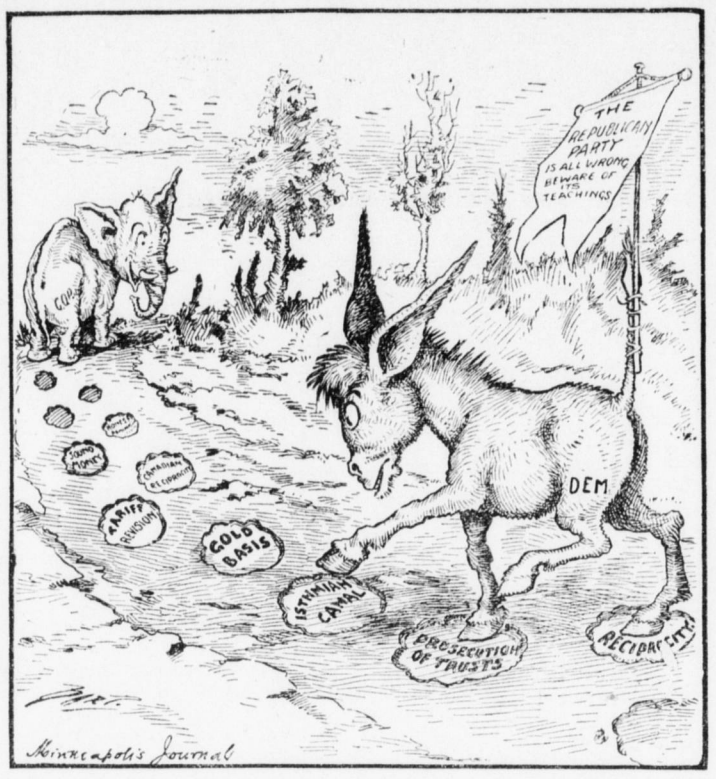
Crowding and Crime.

The Brooklyn Eagle thinks it ought to be worth the while of our sociologists to investigate the effect of tenement life on the psychology of city populations. We have had the results in vital and sanitary statistics, in prison reports, in educational pamphlets, and all that, but it is evident that the pressure of dense populations, the ceaseless all night glare, the racket of streets, the poor food, the want of play room, the lack of even minutes of solitude and self-communion, by the year together, are producing an evil effect on the young. How else are we to construe those attacks on people who go about the town minding their own business, or who attempt to walk or row or ride in city limits? We can regard them only as a form of social insanity. This phenomenon is not peculiar to New York. Melbourne, even, as its "larrigans," a turbulent and dangerous element, and London has recently been confronted with its horde of "hooligans," who smash windows, destroy park shrubbery, frighten women, assault old men and children and take life in a manner quite dissonant from all that we have been led to respect of English courage and love of a fair fight.

The Absent Chaperon.

Chaperons have no serious part to play in an American engagement, says the London Telegraph. The chaperon has never been taken seriously by Americans. It is in only a few of the great eastern cities that the idea obtains at all, and then only among a very limited class. Published columns on etiquette advise the chaperon on every occasion, but in reality she is as much a matter of tradition in most American communities as the obedient child or the stern father. Like them, she is known in the novel and drama only. When she does hold a place in the community it is as the friend of both wooed and wooer, and the official smoother of differences.

THE CONSISTENT DEMOCRATIC PARTY.



CHANGES PARTISAN FAITH.

Chicago Chronicle, Prominent Democratic Organ, Will Hereafter Advocate Republicanism.

The Chicago Chronicle, since its founding a democratic newspaper, continually friendly to sound money, announces in its issue of July 12 that hereafter it will advocate the principles and candidates of the republican party. The editorial in which it makes this declaration follows:

THE CHRONICLE REPUBLICAN.

When 1,000 men, representing the democrats of the United States, most of them chosen with much difficulty as representatives of what is called conservative democracy, permit a mere demagogue to bully them into wrongdoing it must be that the demagogue is greater than the party.

Two-thirds of the delegates to the national democratic convention voted for Judge Parker on the first ballot—the man whom Mr. Bryan had traduced for three months, the man whose friends Mr. Bryan had vilified, the man who Mr. Bryan had said should not be nominated and could not be elected.

When a cowardly committee representing these delegates brought in a platform which was silent on the money question not a voice was raised in expostulation or protest. While hundreds were ready to shout for Parker, not one appeared in defense of elementary democracy.

Mr. Bryan not only graciously permits the democratic party to name a candidate whom he has done his best to defeat in advance, but he places him on a platform with a hole in it big enough to drop the entire party through.

It is bad enough to have Mr. Bryan dominating radical democratic conventions. When Mr. Bryan is able to silence a "conservative" democratic convention the situation becomes intolerable. A mixture of William J. Bryanism and David B. Hillism is insupportable.

The Chronicle is not in sympathy with Mr. Bryan's ideas. For eight years it has refused to believe that Mr. Bryan's ideas were acceptable to the real democrats of the country. The result at St. Louis appears to end the discussion. He and Hill are in control. He and Hill have named the ticket and made the platform.

A timid eastern democrat, who fondly imagined that he could be nominated as an unknown, has been placed on the ticket with an octogenarian free silverite from West Virginia and supplied with a platform which amounts to an indorsement of the platforms of Chicago and Kansas City. The populistic west and the reactionary south are again in alliance, with a new leader, it is true, but with no change in principle and purpose. The ticket bears the stamp of populism. There is not a plank in the platform which was not modified by populism.

The democratic party is attached to Bryanism. It is subservient to Bryan. It has been persuaded against its natural inclinations to nominate an unknown candidate, whom Bryan has antagonized, but it has permitted Bryan to do the rest. The democratic party is Bryan, and there is no reason to suppose that its triumph under the leadership of a man who voted twice for Bryan and free silver, and boasted of it, would be anything else than a triumph for Bryan.

Disagreeing fundamentally with this leader and his party in most things, and agreeing with the republican party in the essentials of its creed, the Chronicle to-day takes leave of the democratic party and allies itself with the republicans.

As at present constituted and led, the democratic party is a menace to the peace, the prosperity and the integrity of the United States and its people. It has discarded democratic principles and taken up with the radicalism of populists and socialists and the obstructionism and the cowardice of wreckers and demagogues. No good can come out of it. With a blank for a candidate and a blank for a platform, it will become more and more a contemptible instrumentality for the exploitation of William J. Bryan and the school of demagogues following in his train.

The Chronicle believes that the republican party, while not free of fault by any means, offers the American people at this time the only prospect of efficient, intelligent and honest government that is anywhere to be seen, and, so believing, it will do what it can to advance its principles and to strengthen its candidates.

☞The campaign itself will not injure business at all. Whatever injury there is will be due solely to the superstition of business men that presidential campaigns and poor trade necessarily go together.—Chicago Record-Herald.

☞One swallow does not make a summer, neither does it cut much figure in a national campaign, even though it be a presidential candidate.—Pueblo Chieftain.

☞Bryan was in the army and would have helped storm a hill if it had come within his line of duty. His direct courage in dealing with political sneaks and shufflers has been proved.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

THE PUBLIC IS SATISFIED.

Whatever the Roosevelt Administration Has Undertaken It Has Carried Through.

The speech of John Sharp Williams, temporary chairman of the democratic national convention at St. Louis, indicates that the time is at hand when the administration at Washington is to be "arraigned," "indicted" and "viewed with alarm" because of its most noteworthy acts in the last four years.

What are those acts? asks the Chicago Inter Ocean.

The administration interfered in the hard coal strike. At the time the people of Chicago, New York and a hundred other cities were on the verge of mob law. Yet no sooner did President Roosevelt interfere than there was tranquility throughout the nation. The administration got there, and the results were what the people wanted.

The administration proceeded against the Northern Securities company. It established beyond doubt or question the fact that in this country no individual, no corporation is above the law. Again the administration got there, and the result was what the people wanted.

The administration grappled with the problem of half a century on the isthmus of Panama. Despite tempestuous assaults from the democrats and anti-imperialists, it overcame all difficulties and solved the problem. To-day there is nothing more in doubt on the isthmus. The administration got there, and the result is what the American people have wanted for 50 years.

The administration set out, in the face of hot opposition, to pacify the Philippines. To-day there is peace in the islands. Again the administration got there, and the result is what the people have wanted.

The administration went out to show that every American citizen, everywhere, is to have the protection of the flag. It determined to rescue Ion Perdicaris, an American citizen, from the brigands of Morocco. Perdicaris is free, and there is peace and respect for the American citizen in Morocco. The administration got there, and the result is what American citizens wanted.

Carping as to ways and means is all that is left in these cases to the opponents of the administration. The results speak for themselves. The people will speak for them, too.

Declaration of Nullification.

The South Carolina democratic state convention deserves credit at least for being outspoken on the race question. One of its planks, after declaring willingness to make generous provision for the education of colored children and expressing sympathy with the negroes' efforts to acquire property, enjoy liberty and elevate their race, nevertheless says it is "indispensable to the permanency of peace in the state and essential to the welfare of our people, white and colored alike, that in matters political the will of the white people shall be supreme, and we avow our purpose to maintain white supremacy." That is, no matter what the constitution and laws of the United States say, the colored citizen shall not exercise the suffrage to which those provisions entitle him. South Carolina has previously shown a disposition to nullify federal authority, but it is not on record that she succeeded.—Troy (N. Y.) Times.

☞What is a door-nail, my son? Why it is a thing that is quite as dead, not to say damned, as is the average democratic issue.—Judge.

☞Vice Presidential Candidate Davis, of West Virginia, was born November 16, 1823. If elected he will be inaugurated in his eighty-third year. Mr. Davis is a democratic free silver populist, but on account of his great age it would be interesting to know whom Judge Parker has in mind for secretary of state in the event of his election. Here is where David B. Hill might stand pretty close to the presidential succession.—Chicago Chronicle.

HE WAS WILLING TO PAY.

But Was a Little Too Foremost in Ordering the Help Around.

A lively looking porter stood on the rear of a car in the Pennsylvania depot. A fussy and choleric-looking old man clambered up the steps. He stopped on the platform, puffed a moment, relates the Cleveland Plain Dealer, and then turned to the young man in uniform and said: "Peter!"

"Yes, sir!"

"I am going to St. Louis. I want to be well taken care of and can pay for it. Do you understand?"

"Yes, sir; I hope—"

"Never mind what you hope. You listen to what I say. Keep the train boys away from me. Dust me off whenever I want you to. Give me an extra blanket, and if any fellow has the berth above me, slide him over into another one. I want you to—"

"But, say, boss, I—"

"Don't talk too much, young man. Here's two dollars. Now I want to get the good of it. Not a word, sir."

The train was starting. The porter swung off to the platform.

"All right, boss," he shouted. "I'm powerful sorry you wouldn't let me talk, but I ain't going out on that train."

Wrong House.

An attendant at Mount Vernon not long since found a lady weeping most bitterly and audibly with her handkerchief at her eyes. He stepped up to her and said:

"Are you in any trouble, madam?"

"No, sir," she sobbed.

"I saw you weeping."

"Ah!" said she, "how can one help weeping at the grave of the Father of His Country?"

"Oh! Indeed, madam," said he, "that's it! The tomb is over yonder. This is the ice house."—Indianapolis Journal.

Breed, Wis., July 18—Special—Chas. Y. Peterson, Justice of the Peace for Oconto Co., has delivered a judgment that is of interest to the whole United States. Put briefly, that judgment is, "Dodd's Kidney Pills are the best Kidney medicine on the market to-day."

And Mr. Peterson gives his reason for this judgment. He says: "Last winter I had an aching pain in my back which troubled me very much. In the morning I could hardly straighten my back. I did not know what it was but an advertisement led me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. After taking one box I can only say they have done more for me than expected as I feel as well now as ever I did before."

Pain in the back is one of the first symptoms of Kidney disease. If not cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills it may develop into Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Rheumatism or some of the other deadly forms of Kidney Disease.

The "Business Engineer.

Not long ago the magazine called System spoke of the "business engineer." That is, it implied that the man who is to conduct a business requires a technical training and stands on as high an intellectual plane as the man who constructs a bridge.

By a curious and most significant coincidence the University of Brussels at just about the same time announced that it would bestow the title of "business engineer" upon the graduates of its newly established department of commercial studies. Meanwhile commercial education, which is as technical as engineering education, has raised its head almost simultaneously in the three great commercial countries of the world. In Germany there are three new "commercial universities," one at Frankfort, one at Leipsic, and one at Cologne, while a fourth is about to open at Berlin. In England the universities of London and Manchester have added commercial courses to their curricula and the University of Birmingham, at the suggestion of Joseph Chamberlain, has erected a "faculty of commerce." In the United States commercial high schools are numerous and departments of commerce have been introduced into many colleges and universities, notably those of Dartmouth, Michigan, Chicago and Wisconsin. Under such circumstances is there not something to be said for the suggestion made by Prof. Waxweiler, of the University of Brussels, that as the nineteenth century made manufacturing processes scientific so the twentieth century will do commercial processes the same service? It is Prof. Waxweiler's conviction that during the twentieth century the process of distributing manufactured good through the markets of the world will become so complicated a profession, demanding so intimate an acquaintance with labor and time-saving devices, with methods of transportation, and with the habits and customs of the people in various countries, that in the first place rigid preliminary training will be required, and that in the second place the business man will be set off in a professional, technical class by himself, just as much as the civil engineer, the architect, the chemist, or the physician.

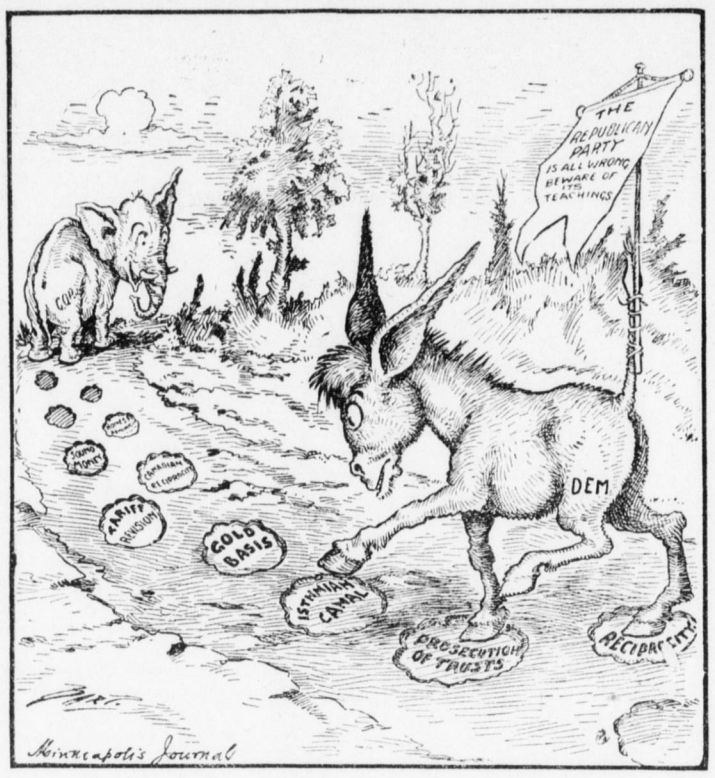
Crowding and Crime.

The Brooklyn Eagle thinks it ought to be worth the while of our sociologists to investigate the effect of tenement life on the psychology of city populations. We have had the results in vital and sanitary statistics, in prison reports, in educational pamphlets, and all that, but it is evident that the pressure of dense populations, the ceaseless all night glare, the racket of streets, the poor food, the want of play room, the lack of even minutes of solitude and self-communion, by the year together, are producing an evil effect on the young. How else are we to construe those attacks on people who go about the town minding their own business, or who attempt to walk or row or ride in city limits? We can regard them only as a form of social insanity. This phenomenon is not peculiar to New York. Melbourne, even, as its "larrigans," a turbulent and dangerous element, and London has recently been confronted with its horde of "hooligans," who smash windows, destroy park shrubbery, frighten women, assault old men and children and take life in a manner quite dissonant from all that we have been led to respect of English courage and love of a fair fight.

The Absent Chaperon.

Chaperons have no serious part to play in an American engagement, says the London Telegraph. The chaperon has never been taken seriously by Americans. It is in only a few of the great eastern cities that the idea obtains at all, and then only among a very limited class. Published columns on etiquette advise the chaperon on every occasion, but in reality she is as much a matter of tradition in most American communities as the obedient child or the stern father. Like them, she is known in the novel and drama only. When she does hold a place in the community it is as the friend of both wooed and wooer, and the official smoother of differences.

THE CONSISTENT DEMOCRATIC PARTY.



CHANGES PARTISAN FAITH.

Chicago Chronicle, Prominent Democratic Organ, Will Hereafter Advocate Republicanism.

The Chicago Chronicle, since its founding a democratic newspaper, continually friendly to sound money, announces in its issue of July 12 that hereafter it will advocate the principles and candidates of the republican party. The editorial in which it makes this declaration follows:

THE CHRONICLE REPUBLICAN.

When 1,000 men, representing the democrats of the United States, most of them chosen with much difficulty as representatives of what is called conservative democracy, permit a mere demagogue to bully them into wrongdoing it must be that the demagogue is greater than the party.

Two-thirds of the delegates to the national democratic convention voted for Judge Parker on the first ballot—the man whom Mr. Bryan had traduced for three months, the man whose friends Mr. Bryan had vilified, the man who Mr. Bryan had said should not be nominated and could not be elected.

When a cowardly committee representing these delegates brought in a platform which was silent on the money question not a voice was raised in expostulation or protest. While hundreds were ready to shout for Parker, not one appeared in defense of elementary democracy.

Mr. Bryan not only graciously permits the democratic party to name a candidate whom he has done his best to defeat in advance, but he places him on a platform with a hole in it big enough to drop the entire party through.

It is bad enough to have Mr. Bryan dominating radical democratic conventions. When Mr. Bryan is able to silence a "conservative" democratic convention the situation becomes intolerable. A mixture of William J. Bryanism and David B. Hillism is insupportable.

The Chronicle is not in sympathy with Mr. Bryan's ideas. For eight years it has refused to believe that Mr. Bryan's ideas were acceptable to the real democrats of the country. The result at St. Louis appears to end the discussion. He and Hill are in control. He and Hill have named the ticket and made the platform.

A timid eastern democrat, who fondly imagined that he could be nominated as an unknown, has been placed on the ticket with an octogenarian free silverite from West Virginia and supplied with a platform which amounts to an indorsement of the platforms of Chicago and Kansas City. The populistic west and the reactionary south are again in alliance, with a new leader, it is true, but with no change in principle and purpose. The ticket bears the stamp of populism. There is not a plank in the platform which was not modified by populism.

The democratic party is attached to Bryanism. It is subservient to Bryan. It has been persuaded against its natural inclinations to nominate an unknown candidate, whom Bryan has antagonized, but it has permitted Bryan to do the rest. The democratic party is Bryan, and there is no reason to suppose that its triumph under the leadership of a man who voted twice for Bryan and free silver, and boasted of it, would be anything else than a triumph for Bryan.

Disagreeing fundamentally with this leader and his party in most things, and agreeing with the republican party in the essentials of its creed, the Chronicle to-day takes leave of the democratic party and allies itself with the republicans.

As at present constituted and led, the democratic party is a menace to the peace, the prosperity and the integrity of the United States and its people. It has discarded democratic principles and taken up with the radicalism of populists and socialists and the obstructionism and the cowardice of wreckers and demagogues. No good can come out of it. With a blank for a candidate and a blank for a platform, it will become more and more a contemptible instrumentality for the exploitation of William J. Bryan and the school of demagogues following in his train.

The Chronicle believes that the republican party, while not free of fault by any means, offers the American people at this time the only prospect of efficient, intelligent and honest government that is anywhere to be seen, and, so believing, it will do what it can to advance its principles and to strengthen its candidates.

☞The campaign itself will not injure business at all. Whatever injury there is will be due solely to the superstition of business men that presidential campaigns and poor trade necessarily go together.—Chicago Record-Herald.

☞Bryan was in the army and would have helped storm a hill if it had come within his line of duty. His direct courage in dealing with political sneaks and shufflers has been proved.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

THE PUBLIC IS SATISFIED.

Whatever the Roosevelt Administration Has Undertaken It Has Carried Through.

The speech of John Sharp Williams, temporary chairman of the democratic national convention at St. Louis, indicates that the time is at hand when the administration at Washington is to be "arraigned," "indicted" and "viewed with alarm" because of its most noteworthy acts in the last four years.

What are those acts? asks the Chicago Inter Ocean.

The administration interfered in the hard coal strike. At the time the people of Chicago, New York and a hundred other cities were on the verge of mob law. Yet no sooner did President Roosevelt interfere than there was tranquillity throughout the nation. The administration got there, and the results were what the people wanted.

The administration proceeded against the Northern Securities company. It established beyond doubt or question the fact that in this country no individual, no corporation is above the law. Again the administration got there, and the result was what the people wanted.

The administration grappled with the problem of half a century on the isthmus of Panama. Despite tempestuous assaults from the democrats and anti-imperialists, it overcame all difficulties and solved the problem. To-day there is nothing more in doubt on the isthmus. The administration got there, and the result is what the American people have wanted for 50 years.

The administration set out, in the face of hot opposition, to pacify the Philippines. To-day there is peace in the islands. Again the administration got there, and the result is what the people have wanted.

The administration went out to show that every American citizen, everywhere, is to have the protection of the flag. It determined to rescue Ion Perdicaris, an American citizen, from the brigands of Morocco. Perdicaris is free, and there is peace and respect for the American citizen in Morocco. The administration got there, and the result is what American citizens wanted.

Carping as to ways and means is all that is left in these cases to the opponents of the administration. The results speak for themselves. The people will speak for them, too.

BUTCHERS' STRIKE RENEWED.

GENERAL STRIKE OF PACKING HOUSE EMPLOYES PROBABLE.

Butchers Claim that in Rehiring Men Who Struck, Those Who Were Active in Union Circles Were Discriminated Against by Bosses

Chicago, July 23.—The stock yards strike, which was renewed Friday morning in Chicago and all other points where the big packing companies have branches, because the strikers were dissatisfied with the manner in which the employers proposed to reinstate their former employes pending a settlement by arbitration, will continue for another day at least.

A joint conference between representatives of both sides of the controversy and representatives of the allied trades in an attempt to bring about a peaceable adjustment of this second strike was unsuccessful, and the meeting was adjourned last night at 8:30 o'clock with the understanding that another conference would be held to-day.

At Friday's conference, which lasted five hours, a committee of ten consisting of five representatives of the packers and five of the Meat Butchers' union was appointed to go over the whole situation, but the committee was unable to reach a working basis with which both sides would be satisfied. Whether the difficulty can be satisfactorily settled at to-day's meeting is problematical, but both packers and the strikers maintain that they are living up to Wednesday's agreement for a settlement by arbitration and that it is the other side that is responsible for the renewal of hostilities.

After last night's adjournment a committee appointed for the purpose announced that the peace negotiations had failed, but that there was still hope that an agreement could be reached in the near future. No written statement of what transpired in the meeting was given out, as has been customary at former conferences, and the committee declined to give any further information except that another meeting would be held to-day.

Unless a settlement is reached to-day the general belief is that a sympathetic strike of the allied trades in the packing industry, which was threatened last week to enforce the demands of the strikers, will be called. All these unions have signified their willingness to stand by the butchers if they are called on to assist in the struggle with the packers for supremacy.

In the following statement, given out by Mr. Donnelly, president of the Butchers' union, the reason why the strikers refused to return to work is given:

"The packers signed an agreement that there would be no discrimination in the rehiring of the men. This was accepted by the officers of the organization in good faith. On the return of the men Friday morning they were lined up like cattle. The foremen and superintendents walking through the line would pick out a man and say 'you come up.' The next man would be pushed out of the line and told that he could not be used, and it was always the good, active union men whom they could not use. They also hired men in some of the departments who had not been employed prior to the strike.

"Superintendent Pension, of the Armour canning department, addressed the employes in the following language Friday morning:

"'You went away like cattle and we will take you back like cattle.'

"This language was used both to men and women," said Mr. Donnelly.

REIGN OF LAWLESSNESS.

Holdup Men and Gamblers Have Inaugurated It at Bonesteel, S. D.

Bonesteel, S. D., July 23.—Federal troops have been asked for and are being held in readiness to be sent here pending a promise by the gamblers that the "grafters" shall leave the city at ince.

Mr. McPhaul notified the government authorities yesterday that the town was past control of the local authorities and advised the sending of troops.

A man was held up yesterday in front of the Citizens' bank and was robbed of $30. Shortly afterward another bold robbery was committed on the main street. A farmer was asked by a gambler to play. He refused, saying he had only $45 He was asked to show his money, which he did. No sooner had he produced it than he was knocked down and his money was taken. The robber walked away and the victim, drawing a revolver, followed and made the footpad give up the money. As he pocketed his pistol and money three other gamblers aimed their pistols at him and took both his revolver and money.

Chicago, July 23.—The movement westward on account of the opening of the Rosebud Indian reservation in South Dakota exceeded all expectations. The Chicago & Northwestern alone took 30,000 people to Bonesteel, Fairfax and Yankton. This unprecedented movement was largely due to the fact that a long overland journey was not necessary to reach the reservation, the Northwestern running direct to the border.

Three Counterfeiters Arrested.

Allentown, Pa., July 23.—Nicholas Cervino, Andrew Tilly and Oscar Beuccia were arrested here late Thursday night, charged with passing counterfeit half dollars at Easton, Pa., and Phillipsburg, N. J. Thirty-five counterfeit half dollars were found on the men and 300 additional coins were found in a secluded spot near this city where, it is is alleged, the men had buried the spurious coin. The three men were given a hearing before Commissioner Leidy and were committed to jail, in default of $3,000 bail each for a hearing next Wednesday.

SCENE OF RECENT ACTION IN RUSSIAN-JAPANESE WAR.

News of the Conflict in the Far East

JAPS LOST 4,000 TROOPS.

Che Foo, July 20.—A junk with eight Russians and 50 Chinese on board arrived here Tuesday, five days from Port Arthur. The Russians refused to talk, but the Chinese say that on July 11 and 12 the Japanese captured and occupied with 4,000 men one of the eastern forts near Port Arthur. Before reinforcements arrived the Russians cut off the 4,000 troops in the fort and exploded mines which resulted in the killing of every Japanese soldier there.

Chicago, July 20.—A special to the Daily News from New Chwang says: Hard fighting has been going on for several days in the neighborhood of Tongschu, eight miles east of Tatchekiao. It is reported that the Russian loss in Monday night's engagement was 2,100 and the Japanese loss 1,200. The Japanese also have been in active contact with the Russians east of Haicheng, where there have been many minor actions.

London, July 20.—In British official circles the recent seizures and overhauling of British ships in the Red Sea by the Russian steamers Smolensk and St. Petersburg are regarded as very grave international incidents. The seizure of the steamer Malacca by the St. Petersburg and her arrival in the Suez canal as a prize of war on her way to Libau, on the Baltic, has come as a climax and the cabinet is considering the course to pursue.

ENGLAND PROTESTS.

London, July 21.—The Standard's correspondent with the first Japanese army, cabling under date of July 19, says: "Our right flank has been engaged since morning."

The correspondent of the Times with Gen. Kuroki's army, under date of July 19, confirms the Standard correspondent's report.

St. Petersburg, July 21.—Sir Charles Hardinge, the British ambassador to Russia, on Wednesday in behalf of his government presented a strong protest to Russia against the seizure in the Red Sea and detention of the steamer Malacca, which was carrying 300 tons of British government stores for the naval establishment at Hong Kong, each case of which was marked with the broad arrow, which is the government stamp.

The ambassador also presented a general protest against the action of the Russian volunteer fleet steamers in the Red Sea.

Russia seems prepared for any representations Great Britain may make on the subject of stopping ships in the Red Sea. It is understood that before sending the cruisers there the Russian authorities became satisfied through an elaborate system of espionage that an immense amount of contraband was going from England through the Red Sea to Japan and they decided to stop the traffic. It is understood that if this traffic is now diverted to the cape route the Russian admiralty is prepared to send ships to the Cape of Good Hope.

Port Said, July 21.—The captured steamer Malacca (bound for Libau, on the Baltic,) has arrived here, manned by a Russian naval captain, four officers, 45 sailors and firemen.

Members of the Malacca's crew were declared prisoners and no communication with the shore was permitted.

The British captain and passengers complain of the Russian treatment. The former carried his protests to such a length that he was threatened with arrest unless he desisted.

THE CZAR WILL YIELD.

St. Petersburg, July 22.—The scare over the Malacca incident has given way to a more rational view. The feeling in high official circles is that the case will be speedily and satisfactorily adjusted. The main difficulty is the excited state of public feeling in the two countries, but the Russian government, under the direct inspiration of the emperor, who is anxious to avoid grounds for a quarrel, is apparently ready to meet Great Britain in the most friendly spirit.

The Russian position can be stated in a few words. While not admitting that the Russian captain seized the Malacca without some warrant, Russia will accept without question Great Britain's assurance that the war munitions on board the vessel were government stores bound for the naval station at Hong Kong and order the immediate release of the ship. At the same time she will maintain her right to stop vessels believed to have contraband of war on board and detain them if the manifests are not plain, as required by international law.

The most sensational piece of news from the front is a dispatch from Liao Yang, dated July 20, reporting a persistent rumor that the Japanese have broken through the Russian left wing between the respective positions of Gen. Keller and Gen. Rennenkampff and are marching upon Mukden.

A VICTORY FOR THE JAPS.

St. Petersburg, July 23.—The Russian reply to the British protest was handed to Ambassador Hardinge Friday afternoon. Russia agrees that the Malacca shall not be brought before the prize court and undertakes that no similar incident shall occur in the future.

London, July 23.—In accordance with instructions from Foreign Minister Lamsdorff, Count Benckendorff, the Russian ambassador to Great Britain, has informed Foreign Secretary Lansdowne that immediately upon the establishment of the presence of the broad arrow—the British government mark—upon the munitions on board the seized steamer Malacca and the fact that no other cargo of a contraband character is on board that vessel, she will at once be released.

Tokio, July 23.—Gen. Kuroki, after a severe fight, occupied Kiao Tung on July 19. The place had been fortified by the Russians, who defended it stoutly. In the fighting Gen. Kuroki's troops drove the Russians from their strongly fortified position on the Chi river, which is northwest of Motien Pass and east of An Ping, inflicting upon the enemy more serious losses than they sustained themselves. The fight began on the 18th and ended on the 19th. The Japanese lost 424 men in killed and wounded. The Russian losses are estimated at 1,000.

On July 19 Japanese forces attacked a battalion of infantry and 1,000 cavalry who occupied Che Chiato. After four hours of fighting the Russians retired across Taitsu river. In this engagement the Japanese had 17 men wounded.

Gorman Will Probably Decline.

New York, July 20.—Senator Gorman, as a result of the conferences of the distinguished democrats who have been meeting here, has been asked to become chairman of the democratic national committee. He has taken the request under consideration, but it seems certain that he will decline. William F. Sheehan is the next choice, but he also may not accept. Should neither Senator Gorman nor Mr. Sheehan accept the chairmanship, opinion is quite uncertain as to who may be chosen. Judge Parker has declined to say who should be chairman.

Portland Mine Is Closed Again.

Denver, Col., July 22.—The Portland mine at Victor is closed again in consequence of the action of the military authorities. The mine was giving employment to about 500 men. Squads of soldiers have arrested 40 of these, including the entire mechanical force at the three working shafts. The men thus summarily removed from their labors are accused of no crime, the only accusation being that they refused to sacrifice their membership in the Western Federation of Miners and take out Mine Owners' association working cards.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

A Yacht with 150 Passengers on Board Caught Fire—The Burning Boat was Beached.

Clayton, N. Y., July 23.—The steam yacht Castanet, returning from Kingston, Ont., Friday afternoon with 150 excursionists, caught fire in midstream and only by the most fortunate circumstances was an awful accident averted.

The yacht was four miles from Kingston and half a mile from shore. A stiff breeze was blowing and the passengers were enjoying the ride when suddenly a sheet of flame shot up through the hatchways. The passengers at once ran to the end of the boat. The flames swept up to the canvas awnings and in a moment these were ablaze. While the passengers were huddled forward and aft the engineer and fireman made their way through the flames from the engine room. The crew, after distributing life preservers to the passengers, began to fight the blaze.

Capt. Nunn headed the Castanet toward shore and was followed by the steam yacht Nokomis, which was a mile away when the blaze burst out. The burning boat was beached on Cedar Island and in a moment the Nokomis was run behind her. The passengers were transferred without the loss of a life and the fire was extinguished by the united efforts of both crews. Engineer Charles Wood and his son, Raymond Wood, the fireman, were badly burned, but will recover.

The cause of the accident was an explosion of gas in the fire box which threw the hot coals out into the engine room.

BRIGHT CROP PROSPECTS.

They are the Most Encouraging Feature of the Business Situation.

New York, July 23.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

Encouraging factors predominate. Little definite increase is seen in the distribution of merchandise, but developments of the past week promise better things in the near future. The most important influence for good is the brighter crop prospect. For the present the best news comes from the large cities,, where warm weather has stimulated retail trade in light weight fabrics and jobbers report that orders from agricultural communities are much better than from manufacturing centers.

There are still many complaints of slow collections. In the principal manufacturing branches there is still much idle machinery, especially at coton mills and iron plants, while most window glass producers will not resume until September. Reports of railway earnings for July thus far show only a loss of 1.5 per cent. as compared with the same period last year.

It is gratifying to note in dispatches from iron and steel making centers that the decline in quotations has ceased, and consumers are making inquiries which promise to result in considerable business. In so far as actual contracts are concerned, the past week was probably the dullest thus far this year.

Failures for the week numbered 231 in the United States, against 191 last year, and 20 in Canada, compared with 19 a year ago.

BLAZING CAR RAN AWAY.

Was Chased by a Fire Engine for More than a Mile Through Chicago Streets.

Chicago, July 23.—Blazing fiercely from wheels to roof, a runaway motor car on the Metropolitan electric elevated railway yesterday whizzed by hundreds of waiting passengers, led a fire engine a chase of more than a mile and was not stopped until it reached the crowded loop in the down town district used by the four elevated roads of the city. The car was brought to a stop by the temporary shutting off of the power at the supply station, the engineer of the power house having been notified that a runaway car was speeding down town.

When the car was first found to be on fire it was detached from the train and was run past the Aberdeen station, so that neither the rest of the train nor the station might catch fire. The car was left alone and a fire engine was called. For some reason just as the firemen were making ready from below the elevated structure to send a stream of water on the blaze the car suddenly started. With no one on board and leaving a trail of fire and smoke behind, the runaway began the wild race down town. When the car stopped at the loop entrance the fire engine, distanced in the first part of the chase, came up and put out the fire, but not before the car was a charred wreck.

Big Fines for Fishermen.

Johnstown, Pa., July 23.—Justice David Gildner, at Rockwood, Somerset county, has just imposed what is probably the heaviest fines ever made under the present fish laws of the state upon Herman Fogt, Austin Schrock and Madison Romesberg. The men were convicted of catching 166 carp and catfish by building a fence across Buffalo creek, driving the fish into wire pens and killing them with clubs and then selling them at ten cents per pound. The fine was $10 for each fish, or a total of $1,660, in lieu of which they must serve 166 days in jail. The men had caught thousands of fish, but proof applied only to 166.

A Political Formality.

Indianapolis, July 23.—Dr. Silas C. Swallow, of Harrisburg, Pa., and George W. Carroll, of Texas, prohibition candidates for president and vice president of the United States, were formally notified of their nominations yesterday. A. G. Wolfenbarger, of Lincoln, Neb., chairman of the recent national convention, delivered the notification address to Dr. Swallow, and Homer L. Castle, of Pittsburg, notified Mr. Carroll. Responses were made by both candidates and National Chairman Stewart delivered the closing speech.

"Our Change of Base."

Consistency is a desirable virtue in the eyes of the editor of the Independent. At least so greatly does he prize the name of being consistent, that he actually has the audacity to bestow this name upon himself in common with his party, claiming that "our change of base (on the money question) involves no change of principle." This assertion is perhaps literally true, at least as far as the editor himself is concerned. In view of his record it will be difficult for him to convince any one that he has now, or ever did have, any honest and stable convictions of his own upon the money question. A few weeks before the Democratic Convention met in Chicago in 1896, the Pennsylvania State Democratic Convention inserted a gold plank in their state platform. The present editor of the Independent was a member of that convention and voted for the gold plank. The Chicago convention, however, nominated Bryan on a free silver platform, and a few days later the Pennsylvania Democrats again assembled in convention, threw out their gold plank and inserted one for free silver. The present editor of the Independent took part in these proceedings, and until recently has been a professed advocate of free silver. Now, we find him aligned with Judge Parker, who regards the gold standard as fixed, not merely for the present but for all time. "Our change of base involves no change of principle." We should say not. The editor of the Independent can change his monetary principles when a mooly cow can change her horns. He will have to get some real honest convictions first before he can talk about changing them.

Does any one imagine that if Mr. Bryan should regain control of the Democratic party in 1908, the editor of the Independent will not then make the discovery that the gold standard is not "irrevocably fixed?" Or does any one think that he will not then be as vociferous in his support of Bryan as he is now in his support of Judge Parker? The truth of the matter is that the editor of the Independent is not encumbered with any real honest principles on this question, and consequently is in neat trim to make any change of base that the exigencies of the political situation calls for. His "change of base involves no change of principle." Oh, no!

There be Democrats who have honest convictions and who are not disloyal to them, no matter what turns may take place in politics. Grover Cleveland has been an honest supporter of the gold standard, through evil and through good report. He had the courage to refuse to support Bryan in 1896 and in 1900. Even Hill and Parker, though they voted the Democratic ticket in those years for the sake of maintaining their party regularity, at least did not stultify themselves by proclaiming themselves believers in free silver. They were still Democrats during the domination of Bryan, very still. Their stillness was eloquent in indicating their monetary views. They actually had views, real views. And Mr. Bryan, wrong-headed as we believe him to be in his views on the money question, nevertheless appears to be absolutely sincere in his convictions and loyal to them. One always knows where to find him. He does not change his base, or his principles, every time a political convention is held. One does not hear him shouting for the gold standard now, any more than one ever heard Cleveland shouting for free silver in 1896 or in 1900.

One always knows too where to find the editor of the Independent One can always find him standing on the latest Democratic platform, no matter what kind of planks are in it. If the platform declares for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the rate of sixteen to one, you will find him shouting for that doctrine as though he believed in it as intensely and honestly as Bryan himself does. Now that the Democratic convention has accepted Judge Parker's declaration that the gold standard is irrevocably fixed, this same supple editor is found standing sure as fate on this latest declaration, assuring us that his "change of base involves no change of principle." We know it.

And he poses as a moulder of thought in Cameron County.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, July 23rd, 1904.

Editor Press:—

The return to town next week of the President to keep bachelor's hall for three weeks in the renovated White House, will give addional life to the city, fill up the hotels, and set the political cauldron to bubbling. Everything is coming his way. Advices from the different states were factional differences existed in regard to state matters, show that there is no falling out over the Presidential candidate. The letter of Mr. Oscar S. Straus announcing that he had abandoned the Democratic party, and "will make it a privilege no less than a duty to dedicate my best services to your election," came as a pleasant surprise in the mail received at Sagamore Hall, There is reason to believe that many other surprises of a similar nature will be forthcoming.

Gentlemen connected with the Executive departments are often surprised at the dispatches sent from Washington and the criticisms which they receive in the press. Quite a breeze has been created in some very respectable newspapers over the announcement that the Government will not allow the wreck of the Maine, in the harbor of Havana, to be raised and removed, even after the contractor has paid the Cuban government for the privilege. Letters have been received at the Navy department asking if this can be true. Why the public should take such an intertest in a mass of twisted and rusted iron is hard to uuderstand. There are those who content that the Maine has been abandoned by the United States and that it now belongs to Cuba and therefore the President has no right to interfere in the matter of its removal. Your correspondent called yesterday upon Judge Advocate Darling, of the Navy, to get the Government's opinion of the matter, the question having been refered to him for an opinion. He very frankly said that in reply to an inquiry from the contractor he gave it as his opinion that "the wreck still belongs to the Government and before it can be disposed of it will be necessary for Congress to take action." This opinion is not a command, and the contractor can go on with his work if he thinks best. It will probably be a long time before Congress will consent to have the wreck raised.

Last Thursday, the 21st inst., was the forty third anniversary of the Battle of Bull Run—"One of the best planned and worst fought battles of the war." Those who were living at that time vividly remember the panic which prevailed in Washington as the retreating soldiers and such Congressmen as were not captured came struggling back into the city, exhausted, wounded and frightened. The battle is to be fought over again in September on the plains of Manassas, Va., under the command of General Corbin. It is announced that Ga., will be represented by a full brigade, and Connecticut is making preparations to send all of its militia. Probably not less than thirty thousand men under arms will take part in the manoeuvers.

Thus far the political campaign is very silent, but the real opening gun will be fired next Wednesday, at Oyster Bay, by the President. Mr. Cortelyou says he does not wish to discuss the political situation until after the formal notification. Senator Scott of W. Va., takes that state out of the doubtful column.

A Serious Matter.

"The third dose of Thompson's Barosma made me feel like a different man. I suffered about a year with pain in back, side and groin. My hands, arms and side of face became numb; would wake up numb all over; have to get out of bed and go through gymnastic exercises to get sleep. I had decided to sell out my business but was cured by Thompson's Barosma. This was two years ago and I have been in perfect health ever since.—J. J. Borne, Titusville, Pa. For sale by R. C. Dodson.

Cured of Chronic Diarrhoea After Ten Years of Suffering.

"I wish to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Mrs. Mattie Burge, of Martinsville, Va. "I suffered from chronic diarrhoea for ten years and during that time tried various medicines without obtaining any permanent relief. Last summer one of my children was taken with cholera morbus, and I procured a bottle of this remedy. Only two doses were required to give her entire relief. I then decided to try the medicine myself, and did not use all of one bottle before I was well and I have never since been troubled with that complaint. One cannot say too much in favor of that wonderful medicine." This remedy is for sale by Jno. E. Smith, Sterling Run.

Rheumatism Neuralgia

To these two diseases probably mankind owes more suffering than to all others combined. While neither is ordinarily perilous, nevertheless Rheumatism lays the foundation for heart disease and Neuralgia leads to the morphine and opium habits. No matter how mild the case may be these troubles should never be neglected. A reliable remedy applied promptly will prevent endless pain and many sleepless nights.

Hamlins WIZARD OIL

is such a remedy. Its use will bring instant relief in all cases and final cure in the great majority. Hamlins Wizard Oil has cured thousands of people from all parts of the world. It can do the same for you.

THE WIDOW

By THOMAS B. MONTFORT

(Copyright, 1904, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

THE widow was neither pretty, nor particularly attractive, and back East, where women were plentiful, she would have considered herself fortunate in the possession of a single lover. Yet, before she had been in Pigeon flat a month she had a dozen admirers at her feet, and had received at least half that many proposals of marriage. In the flat, woman was a rare article, and the men could not afford to be over-exacting in their tastes regarding female charms.

Among the widow's admirers was Blue Thompson. He was a big, burly chap, who had made his advent into the camp with a hurrah and a flourish. He was not at all averse to having the impression go abroad that he was a bad man from away back, and when it began to be whispered about that he had a record as a slayer of men he did not trouble himself to make a denial.

It was not long after Thompson's arrival at the flat until he had things pretty much his own way in the matter of making love to the widow. His rivals were only ordinary every-day citizens, who valued their lives as something worthy of preservation, and who, therefore, were inclined to be more or less timid in the face of danger. None of them possessed a desire to run counter to a man who had acquired the unpleasant habit of shooting his fellow-men on the slightest provocation. Moreover, the widow was rather taken with Thompson's bigness and boldness, and she showed a decided preference for his company. So the others reluctantly held aloof from her, giving Thompson a clear field.

In the saloons and gambling halls at the flat there had, from the first, been much betting on the result of the free-for-all contest for the widow's hand. Up to the time of Thompson's arrival the betting had been at even money, with nobody able to score as a favorite. After he came, however, there was a decided change. He soon became a favorite, and after a time bets were offered on him at odds of five to one, with no takers.

Then, one day, there was a new arrival in the camp. It was a little, sparely built man, who answered to the name of Bob George. He had a soft voice, a smiling face, and manners so gentle that they were almost childlike. He had the appearance of a harmless, inoffensive sort of being, who could be run over and trampled under foot with impunity. In the flat he was considered too insignificant to merit more than a passing notice.

Before Bob had been in the camp many days it became apparent to every one that he had been smitten by the widow's charms, and had joined her galaxy of admirers. Like the others, however, he evinced a wholesome regard for Blue Thompson's claims, and worshipped at a safe distance. He never presumed to seek her society, and if he ever addressed her at all, it was in the most distant manner. But the way his eyes followed her, and the way he spoke of her to others, was proof positive that he loved her.

Bob's admiration of the widow was the source of much amusement in the flat. People laughed at his presumption in daring to worship, even at a distance, a woman who had half the camp at her feet, and who could have Blue Thompson any day, by simply saying the word. Many jokes, regarding his love, were cracked at Bob's expense by the witty ones at the flat. Bob, himself, was not unaware of all these things, but he quietly went his way, keeping his own counsel, and saying nothing.

One night, about a month after Bob's arrival at the flat, there was a large crowd collected down at "Joe's Place." Bob was there, and so was Blue Thompson. There was a good deal of betting going on, in one way and another, and a good deal of drinking, too. Thompson was in the thick of it all, but Bob sat in a corner, taking no part in any of it.

After awhile, some one turned to Joe and said:

"How is the betting on the widow, now?"

"Nothing doing," Joe replied.

"What's the odds on Thompson?"

"The same old thing—five to one—but no takers."

"Thompson seems to have a sure cinch. Guess if it was ten to one there wouldn't be anybody fool enough to go against him."

Thompson, who had been standing with his back to the speakers, turned around and brought his fist down on the bar.

"Of course, I've got a sure cinch," he said, "and to prove that I know what I'm talking about, I'll tell you what I'll do. I've got $5,000 that says I'll marry the widow, and I stand ready to put it up against any man's $500 who says I won't."

He glared around on the crowd, as if inviting somebody to take him up, if any one dared. But everybody was silent. A minute passed, then Bob George arose and walked over to the bar.

"That's pretty big odds you're offering," he said to Thompson, "and it seems like somebody ought to take your bet."

"Why don't you take it, then?" Thompson asked, and a laugh went around the room.

"Me? Oh, I never gamble," Bob replied, in his soft, gentle voice. "Still, it seems like a shame to let a bet like that go by."

"Then, you'd better take it. Nobody else seems to want it."

Bob was silent and thoughtful for a minute, then he said, quietly:

"Well, maybe I'd better. I happen to have $500. Put up your money."

While the bet was being arranged some of the spectators stood about, making remarks. None of these were at all complimentary to Bob. One man went so far as to say:

"Nobody but a derned fool would bet against a sure thing, no matter how great the odds in his favor. Any man of ordinary sense wouldn't take that bet at odds of 100 to one."

"Any man with a particle of sense at all wouldn't," another added.

Bob heard these remarks, but apparently, they did not disturb him in the least. He was as calm as a summer breeze, and on his face was that bland, pleasant smile. He was so childlike and trusting that it seemed almost like stealing milk from a baby to accept his offer to bet. A man more honorable than Blue Thompson would have hesitated to take advantage of his unsophisticated innocence.

When the bet was all arranged, and the stakes properly deposited, Joe said:

"Now, how and when is this thing to be decided?"

Bob looked up at Thompson, trustingly, as if inviting him to answer. The latter, assuming an important, swaggering, arrogant air, and ignoring Bob entirely, said:

"A week is all the time I want for marrying the widow. You can prepare to hand over the stakes to me by that time."

"And if you don't marry her," Bob said, questioningly, "I get the money."

"Of course," Thompson answered, condescendingly. "But, if I were you, I would not lay awake of nights, planning out how to invest it."

"Oh, I won't," Bob replied. "I never lose sleep over things like that. But, why should we wait a week to decide this thing? Why not decide it right now?"

Thompson laughed and the crowd joined in. Bob was certainly very funny.

"Do you think a man can decide a thing like this in two minutes?" Thompson asked.

"I can," Bob replied.

"You can? How?"

"I'll show you."

In a flash Bob had pulled his gun and held it pointed at Blue Thompson's head. The latter started back, with surprise, and the crowd began to move restlessly.

"Be quiet, gentlemen, everybody," Bob said, and the softness and gentleness was all gone out of his voice, and the smile had left his face. "This is a little matter of business, and it is all quite regular, I assure you."

"But, there shall be no murder here," Joe interposed. "You shall not resort to that to win your bet. Men, disarm him."

Several of the spectators started toward Bob, but before they could lay their hands on him he threw back the lappel of his coat and revealed a detective's badge. Those who had started to interfere fell back.

"There will be nobody hurt," Bob said, "unless some of you try to interfere with me in the discharge of my duty. As I said, this thing is all proper and regular."

There was a long and death-like silence. Bob, calm and cool, looked at Thompson, and the latter, gloomy and cowering, looked at Bob. The spectators, their faces pictures of astonishment, looked enquiringly from one to the other. Finally, Joe broke the silence by saying:

"What does it all mean?"

"It means, simply," Bob replied, "that Blue Thompson is not Blue Thompson at all, and that, instead of being a brave, 'bad man,' he is only a common murderer. He killed an old man, stole that $5,000, and then ran away and changed his name. I have been looking for him for about a year, for he is badly wanted."

In the hearts of some of those who were admirers of the widow a glad feeling began to creep up. It would not be such a bad thing to have so formidable a rival as Blue Thompson out of the way. Some of them, who had felt their chances of winning the woman as hopeless, took fresh courage, and resolved to re-enter the contest. On the morrow, they told themselves, they would lay fresh siege to her heart.

Presently, the door opened and a man came in. Without a word he walked over to Blue Thompson, snapped a pair of handcuffs on him, and relieved him of his pistols.

To the men in the saloon there was something familiar looking about this man, although they could not remember ever having seen him. He was a stranger in the flat, beyond a doubt, yet somehow, they felt that it had not been long since they had looked on his features. "But, where?" they asked themselves, "and when?"

The man looked around on the crowd and saw the puzzled look on the faces. He understood and burst into a loud, hearty laugh.

"For shame, for shame!" he cried. "I'm disappointed in you all. To think that not one of you recognizes me, when you have seen me every day for weeks, and some of you have professed to admire me greatly! It seems cruel and disappointing that men should so soon forget the loved features of the one they profess to adore!"

There was a long and awkward pause, then some one said:

"It is the widow."

The man looked up with a smile.

"Yes," he said, "I was the widow, but, now, I am a detective. I'm sorry if any of you feel disappointed, and I trust that I shall leave no broken hearts, here, when I go away. You have all made it very pleasant for me, and to show that I am not ungrateful I want you all to come up and have one with me."

At first there was some hesitation, for the disappointed lovers felt sore, but, presently, they thought better of it, and, treating the matter as a good joke, lined up at the bar and had, not only one, but several.

NAME CARVED ON TURTLE.

Animal Carries Initials Twenty-One Years and Is Then Found by Brother of Carver.

Bearing the inscription "J. L. Ice, August 17, 1883," which was neatly carved on its shell, a land turtle nestled calmly in the pocket of W. B. Ice, of Barrackville, W. Va. J. L. Ice, whose name has been carried by the turtle for nearly 21 years, died two years ago. He was a brother of W. B. Ice.

The turtle was found on the Tom Ice place on Ice's run, where it had a den in a small cavity where a tree had been taken from the yard. Around this cavity were small paths, showing that for years Mr. Turtle has been wandering in close proximity to his home.

On August 17, 1883, Messrs. J. L. and W. B. Ice were making rails in the woods above Tom Ice's house. J. L. Ice ran across the turtle and carved his initials on the shell, and the date was placed there. After he had finished his work he showed the turtle to his brother.

According to W. B. Ice, the turtle has not grown much, and looks the same as he remembers it 21 years ago. Recalling the memories of the dead as it does, the turtle will be returned to his den, and it will be given the best of care by the people who reside in the house near by.

KEEPS HUSBAND IN STORAGE.

New York Farmer, Who Died Last December, is Still Unburied and Neighbors Object.

A man named Lyons died last December at his home on a farm near Niagara Falls, N. Y. Neighbors, who knew of the death, expected, of course, that the funeral would follow, but time passed and no funeral was held. Recently complaint was made to a coroner of this city that the body was being kept in a barn.

An investigation revealed that the body was in storage, and the widow said that her husband's body had been placed in a metallic casket, and that she was waiting for a son to come home before holding the funeral. The woman is reported to be a Christian Scientist.

Nothing like this has ever happened before in Niagara county, and the officials are at a loss to know how to proceed. At present it looks as though the woman might keep her dead as long as she wants to, but every day adds to the neighbors' dissatisfaction.

Another Snake Story.

A snake five feet in length, of the garter species, carrying a knife in its mouth, was said to have been seen by several prominent residents in the upper part of Harrisburg, Pa., recently. The noise of a metallic substance being dragged over the pavement first attracted the attention of two citizens, who, on investigating, saw the snake crawling along, dragging the knife on the pavement. When an effort was made to catch the reptile it dropped the knife and escaped under a porch.

Uncle Sam's Big Checks.

Uncle Sam has paid big bills abroad now, but this Panama payment tops them all, says the Boston Herald. Six years ago he paid Spain $20,000,000 on account of the Philippines, but the amount was sent in four warrants of $5,000,000 each. Previous to that the most historical warrants were $8,000,000 issued to Russia in payment for Alaska in 1868 and $5,500,000 paid England for awards in Halifax fishing infringements.

Bad For His Business.

That eastern man, says the Chicago Daily News, who has already secured $40,900 from charitable people by means of a bad cough probably resents it every time he reads of a new cure for consumption.

RACE DONE?

Not a Bit of It.

A man who thought his race was run made a food find that brought him back to perfect health.

"One year ago I was unable to perform any labor, in fact I was told by my physicians that they could do nothing further for me. I was fast sinking away, for an attack of grip had left my stomach so weak it could not digest any food sufficient to keep me alive.

"There I was just wasting away, growing thinner every day and weaker, really being snuffed out simply because I could not get any nourishment from food.

"Then my sister got after me to try Grape-Nuts food which had done much good for her, and she finally persuaded me, and although no other food had done me the least bit of good, my stomach handled the Grape-Nuts from the first, and this food supplied the nourishment I had needed. In three months I was so strong I moved from Albany to San Francisco and now on my three meals of Grape-Nuts and cream every day I am strong and vigorous and do fifteen hours' work.

"I believe the sickest person in the world could do as I do, eat three meals of nothing but Grape-Nuts and cream, and soon be on their feet again in the flush of best health like me.

"Not only am I in perfect physical health again, but my brain is stronger and clearer than it ever was on the old diet. I hope you will write to the names I send you about Grape-Nuts, for I want to see my friends well and strong.

"Just think that a year ago I was dying, but to-day, although I am over 55 years of age, most people take me to be less than 40, and I feel just as young as I look." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason.

HOW TO CONQUER MUSTARD

Western Farmer Cleared His Field of the Noxious Growth by Systematic Spraying.

My farm was covered with a plague of mustard, which in some respects was even worse than a western mortgage. It amounted to a practical abandonment of the infested fields until I applied the spraying treatment. Preparatory to this I seeded the land to clover, allowing it one year's growth. I plowed this in the spring. Almost immediately afterward every mustard seed within germinating distance of the surface sprouted and produced a vigorous young plant. When in the second leaf and while the fields were covered with a solid green mat of plants, I went over them with my sprinkling tank, spraying them with the following solution: Eighty gallons of water p a in a 2½ per cent. solution of bluestone or sulphate of copper. This solution must be strained before placing in the tank to prevent clogging of the sprayer. The result of this spraying was the practical eradication of all the mustard plants, but few remaining in a growing condition. The cut shows the arrangement I used for spraying the field A wagon water tank may be used instead of a barrel, as shown, in which to place a strong force pump. A pipe is attached horizontally at about the height of axle to rear of bed, being connected with barrel or tank by a suitable hose. At proper intervals spray nozzles, such as are used for spraying fruit trees, are attached to pipe pointing directly downward as shown at a. A second spraying will seldom be found necessary.—Rud McWaters, in Farm and Home.

DRAINAGE OF A WET FIELD.

The Work Was Not Half So Hard as It Seemed in Advance and the Benefits Great.

A little experience is worth more than a whole lot of theory. The theory of draining land is generally all right, but it does not get hold of one's thought and purpose as a very little experience does.

For instance, I had a piece of land that was so wet and soggy I could do nothing with it after it was plowed. The weeds grew on it like bushes, the corn like blades of grass. Last fall and early this spring I dug some ditches in the lowest places, and laid two-inch tile in them. I dug a deep ditch at the head of the wet piece, just under the hill, picked the stone from the piece of land and filled this head ditch with them. This cut off the water from the hillside. The main ditch led from this head ditch straight down through the field. The effect is marvelous. The land broke up well in plowing and harrowed down smooth. The corn is growing on it as well as elsewhere, in spite of the cold season.

The main point in this item is this: The amount of work involved appeared mountainous at first, and deterred me from undertaking it. But the actual work of digging the ditches, laying the tile picking stone and filling in the head ditch was surprisingly small, and easy in comparison with the apprehension of what it would be. A few days of continuous work transformed that boggy piece of land into one of easy tilth.

One thing more in this connection: The road to the lower fields lay across the former wet piece of land. I cut two ditches across the road, at the head of two cross drains, and filled them with stone, and now, instead of having a heavy, wet piece of road to haul manure hay, etc., over, I have a dry, hard road. Altogether, the work has been small, the expense light and the satisfaction great. And—this is another point—the experience is so encouraging that another field which presents like difficulties of culture is no longer disheartening, but, on the contrary, inviting, knowing, as one may, by a trifle of such experience that it will easily yield to the same method of treatment and become fertile instead of waste, as at present.—W. R. Cary, in N. Y. Tribune Farmer.

How to Hang Grindstones.

It requires a pretty fair mechanic to hang a grindstone to run true and stay true. It is supposed that there are no flanges upon the axle. The hole should be at least one-eighth or one-half inch larger than the axle, and both axle and hole square. Then double wedges for each of the four sides of the square, all alike and thin enough, so that one wedge from each side will reach clear through the hole. Drive the wedges from each side. If the hole through the stone is true, the wedges will tighten the wedge true, if the hole is not at right angles to the plane of the stone, it must be made so, or the wedges corresponding must be altered in the taper to meet the irregularity in the hole.—Prairie Farmer.

WHY THE FARM BOY WINS.

It Is Because His Early Life Has Made Him Responsive to Every Moral Suggestion.

No boy need ever regret that he was born in the country and reared on a farm. He may lack the keenness and polish of the city cousin. He may be embarrassed by his own awkwardness, and feel that he is at a hopeless disadvantage in the race, but the country boy has a wider range of practical ideas. From the very first his little services are in demand. He becomes at once a part of the force that is making for home comfort and prosperity, and feels the independence of one who is helping to support himself and add to the general store. The farm boy is likely to regard his life as one of drudgery, and such it may be, if he loses interest in his surroundings or is pressed with a continual round of duty. There is something heroic in the country boy's struggle with the elements. Rain, snow and sleet only brace his courage. The garnering of the crops, the housing and feeding of the domestic animals, the gathering and preparation of the winter fuel give a purpose and zeal to his toil. Then there is the long tramp, sometimes of miles, to the district school, lessons learned before and after long hours of labor. Is it any wonder there are keen wits developing all outside of graded systems and in defiance of pedagogical order? It is the intensity of purpose with which the mind acts under the influence of vigorous health and the conscious value of time that accounts for these results. So from the farm is being supplied a stream of active world-workers, men not afraid to do their duty, and bubbling over with energy and ambition. Touch the country-bred boy, now the merchant prince or the successful professional man, and how responsive he becomes to every suggestion of moral life! The same canont be said of boys reared in the midst of other surroundings. It is the contact with nature that makes the indelible impression upon life. No greater gain can come to the country at large than that which comes from the promotion of the love and appreciation of rural life. Health, happiness, purity and peace are the natural inheritance of those who dwell surrounded by fresh air, beautiful scenes, bright skies and pure social influences.—Agricultural Epitomist.

HANDY CARRIER FOR WOOD.

A Little Farm Convenience Which Saves Lots of Work and Is Appreciated by Boys.

It will be much easier to get the daily supply of wood for the kitchen fire if the children are provided with wood carriers. Make the foundation as wide as the firewood is long, and long enough so it will hold a large armful. This foundation can be solid or not, as desired, but is much lighter if made of slats. At each end is fitted a solid upright piece which is as wide, and almost as high, as the width of the foundation. This serves to keep the wood in place, the sides being left open and the wood placed crosswise in the carrier. An iron rod is bent for a handle, or a piece of band iron can be used, either one being fastened firmly to the foundation at the bottom of the outside of the upright ends.

A more simple one that any boy can make has a foundation like the first, and a bent green branch for a handle. For the upright ends, use the branches, bending them so the ends are fastened to the corners of the foundation and the rounded part comes about a foot above it. The corners must be strongly fastened with screws, and the handle be placed outside the end pieces to hold them firm. These carriers do away with the old woodbox, which is so often an eyesore in an otherwise attractive kitchen.—Orange Judd Farmer.

Securing Runaway Swarms.

When large apiaries of Italian bees are kept, it is essential that all blacks and hybrids within a radius of a mile be disposed of, if the swarms are to be kept pure. It is often a nuisance to hive stray swarms, but an apiarist must do this in order to protect his stock. A. I. Root, a large beekeeper of Ohio, sends a man on a bicycle to hive all stray swarms which are reported to him. The man carries a pair of pruning shears, small smoker, bee-veil, gloves and burlap sack, in which to place the bees. The sack can usually be slipped around the bees and the mouth of it tied before the limb is cut. The bees are then carried off in the sack and placed in a hive.—Orange Judd Farmer.

What Modern Farming Means.

Slipshod farming has had its day—too long a day, whose twilight still lingers long after its sun has set. If no other cause would compel the change, the increasing price of land would bring it. From this day forth the farmer who is to hold up his head among his fellows, and play his part in the world's affairs, must put into practice the very best system of handling his land, a system that will produce big yields at minimum costs, and conserve and increase the fertility of his soil. Every other sort of farming will only result in failure.—Farm Journal.

Prevention Cheaper Than Cure.

All diseases are easier to prevent than to cure, and most diseases can be traced to some kind of neglect, whether the animal affected be a horse, cow, sheep or pig.

Plaster of paris scattered over the floor of the chicken house purifies and absorbs foul smells.

Miss Alice M. Smith, of Minneapolis, Minn., tells how woman's monthly suffering may be quickly and permanently relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I have never before given my endorsement for any medicine, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has added so much to my life and happiness that I feel like making an exception in this case. For two years every month I would have two days of severe pain and could find no relief, but one day when visiting a friend I run across Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,—she had used it with the best results and advised me to try it. I found that it worked wonders with me; I now experience no pain and only had to use a few bottles to bring about this wonderful change. I use it occasionally now when I am exceptionally tired or worn out."—Miss Alice M. Smith, 804 Third Ave., South Minneapolis, Minn., Chairman Executive Committee Minneapolis Study Club.

Beauty and strength in women vanish early in life because of monthly pain or some menstrual irregularity. Many suffer silently and see their best gifts fade away. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps women preserve roundness of form and freshness of face because it makes their entire female organism healthy. It carries women safely through the various natural crises and is the safeguard of woman's health.

The truth about this great medicine is told in the letters from women published in this paper constantly.

Mrs. C. Kleinschrodt, Morrison, Ill., says:—

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I have suffered ever since I was thirteen years of age with my menses. They were irregular and very painful. I doctored a great deal but received no benefit.

"A friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and after taking a few bottles of it, I found great relief.

"Menstruation is now regular and without pain. I am enjoying better health than I have for sometime."

How is it possible for us to make it plainer that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will positively help all sick women? All women are constituted alike, rich and poor, high and low,—all suffer from the same organic troubles. Surely, no one can wish to remain weak and sickly, discouraged with life and without hope for the future, when proof is so unmistakable that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will cure monthly suffering—all womb and ovarian troubles, and all the ills peculiar to women.

A Continual Strain.

Many men and women are constantly subjected to what they commonly term "a continual strain" because of some financial or family trouble. It wears and distresses them both mentally and physically, affecting their nerves badly and bringing on liver and kidney ailments, with the attendant evils of constipation, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, low vitality and dispondency. They cannot, as a rule, get ride of this "continual strain," but they can remedy its health destroying effects by taking frequent doses of Green's August Flower. It tones up the liver, stimulates the kidneys, insures healthy bodily functions, gives vim and spirit to one's whole being, and eventually dispels the physical or mental distress caused by that "continual strain." Trial bottle of August Flower, 25c; regular size, 75. At all druggists.
